Celebrate closure and new beginnings at UMRA’s Annual Gala Luncheon, May 24

UMRA members are invited to enjoy the May 24 Gala Luncheon (with your choice of three enticing entrees —see page 3), to participate in the organization’s Annual Meeting, and to celebrate achievements with the University’s departing First Family as they prepare to enter “civilian life.”

As our featured speakers, Dr. Robert Bruininks and his wife, Dr. Susan Hagstrum, will reflect on their experiences over their nine years as the University’s president and first lady in remarks titled, “Seeking the Bright Horizon: Aspirations and Achievement at the U of M.”

Both Drs. Bruininks and Hagstrum have made notable contributions along similar but separate paths. With Ph.D. degrees in education, they became leaders in their field: Dr. Hagstrum devoted 27 years to pre K-12 public education and Dr. Bruininks, in more than 40 years at the University, worked also in pre K-12, centering on child and adolescent development, in policy research, as well as higher education. In November 2002, he succeeded Mark Yudof as the University’s 15th president, crowning his career as a professor, dean, and executive vice president and provost.

Dr. Bruininks has committed his presidency to positioning the University to become one of the top three public research universities in the world. Accordingly, he refocused both academic and capital investment strategies, and organizational structure and operations. With affordability for students his primary concern, he initiated two major scholarship programs: U Promise, guaranteeing aid for all low- and middle-income Minnesota students; and Promise for Tomorrow, raising more than $340 million.

Recognized nationally and internationally, Dr. Bruininks is a leading advocate for responsible stewardship and reform in higher education. He recommitted the University to be more publicly engaged, more involved in economic development, and more sustainable through renewable energy.

Leading by example, Dr. Bruininks and Dr. Hagstrum are the commitment to the University and community that they inspire in others. When she became the U’s first lady, Dr. Hagstrum put her own business (helping non-profit organizations improve results) on hold to become one of the University’s foremost ambassadors and chief volunteers.

Besides hosting events at Eastcliff, she raises funds for the University and serves on many University boards, including three major museums. In the larger community, she
The end of this academic year and our UMRA year is fast approaching! We look forward to the final luncheon meeting and a special celebration of President Bruininks’s presidency. It will be a great opportunity to thank him and Dr. Hagstrum for their unstinting efforts on behalf of the University and for his support of the Professional Development Grants for Retirees program.

Last month’s Newsletter announced the awardees of the grants. That these were the third group of awardees named over as many years indicates that this program is now quite well established, due to the guidance of the PDGR committee headed by John Howe. Funding thus far has come from several units within the University, but the committee is working toward a more permanent funding base with perhaps an endowment fund to generate sufficient income for ten grants each year.

The Retirees Center initiative, which began several years ago, finally appears to be gaining traction. Jack Lam, a sociology graduate student, will serve as half-time assistant this summer researching organizational arrangements of other institution’s centers. Already underway is increased collaboration of UMRA and URVC with the Office of Human Resources on matters of communications and web site development.

Thanks are due many people for their work in helping UMRA to have a busy and vibrant year. Among these are our volunteer reservationists—Judy Leahy Grimes, Betty Radcliffe, Ben Zimmerman, Pat Tollefson, and Frank Miller—and Jan Hogan, who has led a superb menu committee. Virgil Larson has faithfully recorded our membership rolls. With considerable editorial skills, Ginny Hanson has done excellent work assembling our UMRA Newsletter. Ron Anderson and, more recently, David Naumann have enlivened the UMRA web site and kept it up to date. Thanks, too, to Ted Litman, Rod Loper, and Vernon Eidman for their service representing us so well on key University Senate committees that deal with retirement and benefits issues.

During this year Ron Anderson has guided a new UMRA camera club, arranging interesting presentations each month. A book discussion group, under the leadership of Pat Tollefson, was established this spring. Thanks to Ron and Pat for their involvement and initiative. If anyone else has an idea for organizing an interest group, please contact a board member or send an e-mail to umra@umn.edu.

Thanks to Bob Holt and the nominating committee for recruiting nominees for our votes at the May meeting and thanks to those who are stepping forward to lead UMRA. Retiring from the board will be Past President Bob Holt, Secretary Corrine Ellingham, and board members Meredith Poppele, Earl Scott, and Pat Tollefson. Thanks to all for their many years of service. Calvin Kendall, currently serving as president-elect and chair of the Program Committee, will be UMRA president for 2011-12. Calvin hails from the English Department. Please welcome and support him as he takes over the reins!

This has been an enjoyable year for me, and it has been my pleasure to be involved with such an interesting and cooperative group of people. Have a great summer!

Annual Meeting business includes elections, proposed bylaw amendment

Among the items in the short business portion of the Annual Meeting is the election of officers and new board members. The Nominating Committee recommends the following for your consideration.

Officers:
- President-Elect: Ron Anderson
- Treasurer: Richard Skaggs (second term)
- Secretary: Julie Medbery

Board of Directors:
- Jan Hogan (for second three-year term)
- David Naumann
- Judson Sheridan
- Julia Wallace

A proposed amendment to the UMRA Bylaws was considered by the board at its April meeting and the revision is printed here for your vote at the annual meeting in May.

Article XI. Quorum (for the Annual Meeting)

An assembly of fifty-one percent of the current members [change this to fifty members] shall constitute a quorum.

Rationale: A quorum of fifty-one percent of current members is unachievable. UMRA annual meetings routinely draw fewer than 100 people, which is nowhere near fifty-one percent of the current membership, 450 (singles and couples) or 575 people. The required quorum effectively means UMRA would be unable to conduct business; the board wishes to remedy that with this change to the bylaws.
Mark your calendars for special UMRA event at The Goldstein, Saturday, June 18

If you have never been to the Goldstein Museum of Design in McNeal Hall on the campus in St. Paul, you are in for a treat. And, you’ll want to visit again and again.

Join us for a special reception and tour at The Goldstein on June 18, from 2 to 4 p.m. Enjoy refreshments and an exhibit of artisan samples of handcrafted textiles of India. UMRA member Donald Clay Johnson traveled to India for his research, supported by an UMRA Professional Development Grant. He will talk about the crafts of that region as members and guests tour the exhibit. Plan now to invite fellow retirees and soon-to-retire U faculty and staff so they can sample one of many interesting activities UMRA offers.

Goldstein’s “Smart House” exhibit ends May 22

The Goldstein offers a wealth of interesting exhibits. Currently showing (closing May 22) is “Smart House,” featuring intelligent design in products specially geared toward the growing popularity of homes that allow for aging in place. See more at goldstein.design.umn.edu.

University cutbacks expected to affect future health and retirement plans

In response to impending cuts in the state’s appropriations to the University, the administration is proposing changes in both the faculty retirement and employee health benefits plans. These include reducing the University’s contribution to the retirement plan for newly hired faculty from 13 to 10 percent. By increasing faculty contributions from 2.5 to 5.5 percent, this would retain the total employer and employee contribution at its current 15.5 percent.

On the health benefits side, faculty and staff will be asked to absorb a 5 percent reduction in their benefits package for a projected saving of about $12 million per year in the 2012/13 biennium. As always, of course, the devil is in the details, and at this writing these are still being worked out. What is known is that the University’s contribution to the cost of coverage will drop and employees will need to contribute more. Increases in the premiums are preferred over higher co-pays and an effort is favored to protect lower paid employees.

NOTE: The changes proposed above will not apply to current retirees with the exception of possible changes in the dental plan co-pays, which would only apply to those of us who have retiree-only or retiree-plus-spouse or domestic-partner coverage through the University.

—Ted Litman, UMRA representative to the Benefits Advisory and Faculty Affairs Committees

Retirement funds report high ratings

For those whose retirement funds are invested in Securian Financials, we have good news — this spring they reported improved financial strength for the end of 2010 in their annual report to the University of Minnesota Retirement Committee. Assets under management and equity both increased, exceeding the previous highs reached at the close of 2007. They also maintained their high ratings of financial strength from A.M Best (superior), Fitch (very strong), Standard and Poor’s (very strong) and Moody’s (excellent).
